Carhaul TEAMSTERS UPDATE

Carhaul Local Union Leaders to Review Tentative Agreement on July 2

Ballots Scheduled to Be Mailed to Members July 10

Leaders from local unions that represent carhaul members will meet July 2 in Detroit to review the tentative national agreement that was reached June 19.

If the local leaders endorse the three-year tentative agreement, it will pave the way for carhaul members to vote on whether to approve the agreement. Ballots are tentatively scheduled to be mailed to members on July 10.

“We are confident that local union leaders will agree that this contract is a good contract, especially given the very tough economic environment facing the auto industry and country in general,” said Fred Zuckerman, Teamsters Carhaul Division Director and lead negotiator. “This tentative agreement protects members’ job security and maintains their benefits without additional costs to members. It also protects wages. We have addressed the members’ top concerns.”

More details about the tentative agreement will be reported to members once the local union leaders review it.

“Members will learn that this contract is intended to grow the industry during this period of decline,” Zuckerman said. “Our goal is to keep our members’ jobs secure and get others back to work and be in a position to increase Teamster jobs even more when the economy turns around. This contract lays the groundwork for a more secure future for all our carhaul members in the years to come.”

About 9,500 Teamster carhaulers are eligible to vote on the agreement.
